The Original Story - Year 2089

At the end of the 21st century: The world is in ruins under HUMNX, a mega corporation turned autocratic regime out of a desire to “heal the world,” no matter the human cost. The United States Free Forces leads the resistance, armed with a one-of-a-kind, building-sized weapon: the Archangel. HUMNX has abundant resources and developed equivalent weapons, but the USFF is determined to take freedom back. Rise from the rubble and prepare for combat: You are the last, best hope of the free.

Current Events - Year 2099

After a few strategic USFF victories, HUMNX has adapted. In response to the Archangel weapon, the incredibly resourceful corporation deployed three new, state-of-the-art mechs featuring advanced movement and weapons systems. The USFF rises to the new challenge and initiates automated, mechanized war-machine construction to increase their own mech roster to an equivalent level.

Conscious of their inability to keep pace with HUMNX enhancements, USFF weapons strike the largest enemy Mech Replication site, Genesis Facility. HUMNX immediately retaliates. The ensuing war results in extensive destruction and far too many casualties. When The Great Mech Wars end, who will be left to reclaim our shattered world?

This game will scare your slippers off. If you like alien isolation, penumbra, condemned, and scp containment breach, then this game is for you!. I tried my best to enjoy this game but I can't.. Have to say the most atmospheric space RTS game I have played, plenty of research options, I had this game many years ago and lost it, 99p???? insane for such an epic game, I love exploding ships and the music and the fact you have starbases that move!!!. It's fun for the Bass. Don't know for the Guitar.. I like the paint jobs, but.. I wouldn't say it is worth it..

1. You can't install them on a 8x4 chassis (like why, even the simplest mods/skins have that option)
2. There 6, but I just get the feeling they could have been way better.
3. It would be nice if you could do something similar on your trailers... I was in on the Beta and holy crap this game is amazing....but I'll warn you it is addictive.. This game is a must buy for the vive. You will only need to get one other person to come try it with you and then hours of excitement will follow. The best concept I have seen yet for vive. many directions they could take this game, all of which excite me. Just buy it!. Was fun with friends, can't wait for more rooms! (I played in VR). Honestly the concept had me sold as a fan of hip-hop and the culture that surrounds it.

The artstyle is awesome.
Instrumentals are super dope.
Gameplay is executed flawlessly.

The only thing I could hope for is online play maybe, other than that, it's great!

this is rough.

Probably one of the worse game I've tried... I cant make it more then a few minutes into the game without wanting to just delete it. Fun like "Asteroids" but with a lot more complexity! I like how this game has an arcade feel combined with quests, skill trees, resource acquisition, ship upgrades, and more. I also enjoy the simple controls and exciting music & sound effects.

. Well, here goes. My first ever steam review. I must say this game is like finding the old love that got away. If you liked the old final fantasy games and all the other rpg gems that came out in the SNES era you will like this game. It has that cozy feeling that i havent felt since i was a young boy sitting in my room playing SNES:) Besides the feeling the game itself is really fun. There is fun grinding were u really notice the differnce when leveling up and choosing what skills to learn and were to put your stat points. The games world is also huge, i mean really huge with alot of towns and dungeons packed with fun puzzles that you often get a really nice reward from in form of gear or items. Then we have the music and story. The story is maybe not "the last of us" but it is what you expect and sure it draws you in. But the music is really good in this game, several times i just dropped my controller and juts listend:) Like good ol cain would have said: Stay awhile and listend! So do yourself a favour and buy this game if you have any love for oldscool rpg and also the developers deserves it:) Enjoy. Full disclaimer: I played this game during its development phase.

When I first heard of this game it immediately intrigued me, my main problem with having friends play on my Vive was that I as the owner would just be spectating, this game changes that.

In short, this is a puzzle game that requires both the PC player and the VR player to work together to solve puzzles. While there aren't too many levels out yet, the concept is certainly there and I hope there will be more added levels during the course of Early Access.

The graphics are pretty good, and the maps have plenty of VR-oriented material. You can pick up random props as is enjoyable to do in any VR game, but this time you can throw them at youf friends.

All in all I'd definitely recommend this game, and I look forward to see more levels.. I had one all typed out and then I accendentially hit a link and there goes all the paragraphs I had. So, this will be shorter and even messier than the previous one I had. Apologies. -

I loved bomberman growing up, but I didn't have many oportunities to play it, so this was a great find. I believe that if you liked bomberman, odds are you will enjoy this game. For a free (DLC aside) game, there's no harm in downloading and trying it out! Bugs and glitches aside, it's pretty decently done and well executed, plus the devs are still working on fixing the bugs and stuff, so hopefully those get fixed soon.

That aside, if you've never played bomberman before, I'd recommend watching the intro vid, or checking out some of the guides here. There's even advice for advanced players when I curiously took a look at some of them one time. For the most part people on here are nice and friendly, so you can always just ask. Though there are a few..."bad apples", so to say, that do say some hurtful/toxic stuff, but for the most part you don't encounter them very often. There's also a few spammers who don't bother clicking ready and just spam the chat with toxic words or websites, but even I've only seen that like, once or twice. Oh, also, some people take winning/losing really seriously, for some reason. So be prepared for maybe some excuses, definitely cursing, and of course, complaining. I've had the pleasure of usually being in rooms with really chill people though, so not everyone is so serious, at least.

Also I dunno if it's just me, but whenever the winner's/team's name flashes on screen for some reason the volume seems to jump up significantly, as though trying to make me even more deaf than I already feel I am. So I'm hoping that gets fixed...look out for that I guess?

Anyways, overall a pretty solid game. If you do give this one a shot, I look forward to a match against you in the future.

- Skye. i really freaking hope theres a skin pack like this for every character that gives them unique weapons wiht unique sounds like kingpin and oni's weapons.. Very fun and intuitive game.
